Helen M. Gougar Excoriates The Leading Women of Kansas.

Mrs. Helen M. Gougar has written a letter to the Argentine "Republic" in which she says a great many virulent things.

She opens the letter in this way: "The women of Kansas are a disgrace to the men of the state, if it is to be held that the women politically inferior to Italian dogs can be called men. I am not surprised at the results. Such was a foregone conclusion when the German league made terms with the Republican machine of the state convention. Justice to woman, safety to children and to Kansas homes—these were the slogans of the German league and anti-prohibition vote. The world 'Republican' is a synonym for 'traitor' to all that is honest and just in politics. In the context of the present as was the word 'rebel' in the late war of the rebellion."

In the next paragraph she calls the Republicans "copperheads," and adds that the women managers were at fault. Mrs. Laura J. Johns and Miss Susan B. Anthony she roasts with these words: "Mrs. Johns, president of the State Suffrage association, remained president of the Women's Republican league. Thus, instead of cutting loose from Republican alliance when she saw their repudiation of the amendment at the last of the German league, and fearlessly exposing their treachery, by her silence and cringing she gave them consent. Again, Mrs. Anthony's course, speaking for a party that was half-hearted in its espousal of the amendment, and a party that had openly plotted to assist the Anarchist turn of events of the larger cities to annul the prohibitory law, drove many Christian men to vote against the amendment, for they doubted the utility of woman's ballot in the hands of such leaders."

She says that if the women had been fearless for the right they would have won "in spite of the larger bundle." Then follows a paragraph scoring Mrs. Annie L. Duggan and Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Lease for their scene at a Topeka meeting: "Just at this critical hour the unbecoming language used in public between two women prominent in Populist politics in Kansas, who the son of grandpa's hat was put upon a railroad train from the tail end of which he made twenty-eight addresses in one day and traveled 150 miles."

Mrs. Gougar closes with: "In '96 a reform political party will sweep the country. The party will stand for universal suffrage, woman suffrage, free trade, government ownership of railroads and telegraphs, and the reclamation of lands from alien and corporate control. In this battle, moral cowardice, both men and women, will be relegated to the rear, and political corruption will find no place with a people dead in earnest upon great issues that involve the welfare of 70 millions of people and the perpetuity of Republican institutions. May God and honest men and women hasten the day."

She adds that in Kansas, as elsewhere, "tariff dust was thrown in the faces of men partly drunk, that the gold and rum power might pick their pockets, as it was in Indiana, where the son of grandpa's hat was put upon a railroad train from the tail end of which he made twenty-eight addresses in one day and traveled 150 miles."

WITH GREAT ECLAT.

Lawrence Covers Himself With Glory and Honor

IN ENTERTAINING THE TOPEKANS

At the Club House of the Lake View Shooting and Fishing Association.

The compensation of a sportsman—to borrow the original thought expressed by Rev. Dr. Roberts at the Lake View club house last evening—lies not in the fish he has caught in a day's outing, nor in the birds he has bagged, but in the latitude he is permitted in telling of his conquests. This permission, always conceded to the lover of the gun and rod, in any other would be classed as a prerequisite to a membership in the St. Ananias club.

In addition to this one great compensation which the fisher and hunter can always draw upon with a free and unlimited catalogue of success in the fish or bottom of the depths to one in the bag or basket, occasionally there is the red letter night of delight with the feast and freedom of a sportsman's banquet with its game to season the palate and the toast to flavor the souls of the kindred present.

One of these gala occasions was the event of last evening, the reception and entertainment given by the Rev. Lawrence members of the Lake View club to the half hundred members from Topeka and invited guests.

In the history of the Lake View Fishing and Shooting association nothing of its kind up to date ranks with the success attending this banquet.

Sixty Topekans left at six o'clock on the Santa Fe and were soon some twenty miles away at Club House station. The reception committee from the Anthonys of Kansas seemed to extend from the railroad half a mile to the club house itself. At the banquet place the welcome resembled the recent Republican ratiocination in joy and noise and sincerity.

The lower floor of the house of the club was a bower of beauty in decorations. A blaze of colored lights greeted the guests. A canvas of hunting surrounded the spacious porches, which formed an outer circle to the hall within. Three large tables provided covers for six score. The entertainers immediately took the breath of surprise of the entertained. Above the laden board was the ceiling graced with hanging poles and suspended festoons of evergreen and ribbons and embellished with lanterns and flags. From the walls protruded the well mounted heads of moose, elk, deer and Rocky Mountain sheep, whose eyes seemed to reflect the surprise of the animated spectators who gazed in wonderment at what the Lawrence people—meaning "Dye"—had shown in an artistic way to aid the digestion of the more substantial feast to follow.

At the tables alternated a guest with a host. The service and cuisine were in harmony with the elaborate event. A course of oysters and celery was followed by quail-on-toast, with green peas and potatoes. St. and turkey "red hot biscuits" preceded fruits and cigars. Coffee and cream were among the liquids which flowed freely.

The choice cigars were manufactured for the guests by George Leonard of Lawrence, and were branded "Lake View Special." As the coffee cups were poured and the Havanna cigars lighted, Toastmaster Bowerscock passed lightly in review of a now long forgotten "burquo," said to have been given by some unknown club member in former times at some unknown period, at some unknown place—evidently, at any rate, leagues distant in the memory of all Topeka's who heard Mr. Bowerscock's welcome.

President Wasson responded feelingly, warmly, sportively—not forgetting a story of codfish aristocracy, based on an outing of Daniel Webster and Lafayette.

Prof. D. H. Robinson, of the chair of ancient languages, of the Kansas University told of "The Ancient Sport" and proved that Pliny and the Greeks and Romans of old caught as large fish in their day as the biggest which ever got away from the bamboo rod and line of the present day amateur. He unrolled the tales of P. J. Lyons, who related "A Whaling Story," which depicted the wreck of the "Miranda" by a northwesterly biting into the ship's hull with a tooth twenty feet long. This made Dr. Wasson say in an undertone: "How I would like to gold-fish that ivory cavity."

Pick Smith was asked to speak of the "Great American Game." He was primed on draws, fulls, fushes and pairs when the toast master paralyzed him by adding to the toast the word "fish." Mr. Smith gazed abstractedly at Prof. Cowan, the handsome champion of the golf-green, seated near him, and immediately collapsed and disappeared from the table.

Hon. Tom McNeal wrapped himself in missile proof glory in his scientific and learned dissertation on the "Dry Land Fish." He did not see why Lake View was not a model place for raising fish by growth and a book and line, unkindly adding that the site, apparently presented every facility except water. He had not heard evidently, of the $2,500 canal recently successfully built as a feeder to the lake. The lake indeed presented a large body of water, and it was unfortunate that the night was too dark for the hard from Backhouse to explore its surface and depths. Mr. McNeal assured the members that his experience in the southwest led him to say advisedly that a species of channel cat could be cultivated to require watering but once a week. He spoke handsomely of the architect who had constructed the beautiful club house giving the district every opportunity for coming in out of the rains and storms.

Eugene Ware was one of the many whole souled fellows in the crowd and made things pleasant for all around him, but he resented, for this once, an effort to class as a poet one whom we all know as a foremost lawyer of the country. He talked practical prose, however, and brought applause for a story of the field entitled "Baron Count De Como By Blanc O'Rate." Cliff Baker related, for the first time in public, some stories about what he "saw in Europe."

The toast which captured the entire assembly was "Missouri's Greeting to Kansas," extended in a masterpiece of word-painting by the Rev. Dr. Roberts of Kansas City. He said it was eminently fitting that such a welcome between the twin states should be given within a club house where such expressions of friendliness and fraternal interests were often of the most ardent nature that could enter into the spirit of the occasion. He told in his unique and fascinating style stories appropriate and complimented Kansas by one pathetic incident of a Missourian whose request on his dying bed was to be carried over the line that he might breathe his last breath amid the pollen and perfume of the sunflower.

Judge W. F. R. Guthrie presented a floral tribute in words to the "Gun and Rod," and soon train time closed an evening of rare recreation and enjoyment.

IGNOBLE DEFEAT.

Washburn Defeated by the Score of 22 to 0.

Washburn college was defeated on its own football campus yesterday by the College of Emporia, by the score of 22 to 0. Aside from the inability of Washburn to score the game was a good one. Washburn fouled the ball as though it were made of iron and seemed unable to make any advantageous gains.

The first half finished with the score at 12 to 0.

Emporia made ten more points in the last half. Two noses were scratched slightly, and Maurice Gould had his shoulder hurt. This is the way the players closed up.

MUCH PLEASSED AUDITORS

Heard Edward P. Elliott at Washburn College Last Night.

The first number in the Washburn college entertainment course was given last night by the legislator, Edward P. Elliott at the college chapel.

There were 600 people present and every one was delighted. Elliott clearly demonstrated that he is one of the very best entertainers of his class. He was introduced by Prof. Palmer.

He gave the three acts of the play Hazel Kircy, impressing the quartet of Dunstan Kircy, Merce, Squire Rodney, Arthur Carrington, Pincus Green and Dolly. The changes were made so rapidly and with such good effect that it was difficult for the audience to believe that an entire troupe was not acting the play. The management is to be congratulated on the successful opening of their course. The second number will be given a week from next Friday evening by the Dayton jubilee singers. There will be six numbers in all, Rev. Robert McIntyre being the best known of those who will fill subsequent dates.

All rivals disappear before the power of Dr. Price's Baking Powder as a leaving agent.

WERE FRIGHTENED OFF.

An Attempt to Rob the Nortonville Bank Last Night a Failure.

An attempt was made to rob the State bank at Nortonville last night. The door of the vault was shattered and the outer rim of the safe door blown off, but the robbers were evidently frightened away as they did not complete the job, and secured no money. Nothing was known of it till this morning.

A horse and buggy that was taken during the night was found near Ash Grove this morning, and it is supposed the robbers used it in making their escape. They secured most of their tools from a blacksmith shop that was near. C. C. McCarthy is president of the bank and John Campbell is cashier. Topeka people who claim to know, say this same bank has been broken into twice before, once by the notorious crackman Poke Wells.

WHERE COTTON REIGNS.

Interesting Exhibit of the Texas Cotton Palace in Hustling Waco.

The mammoth Texas cotton palace was recently thrown open to the public in Waco, and cotton now reigns as king in the Lone Star State. He is rather a cheap king just now and is doing business on a 6 cent basis, but nevertheless thousands of his subjects are flocking to Waco daily to see him. Waco is a hustling young city in the heart of the cotton growing region of Texas. In 1888 50,000 acres in McLennan county, of which Waco is county seat, produced 20,723 bales of cotton, valued at $903,712.

The cotton palace is the creation of Waco's enterprising citizens, who built it at an expense of $250,000. The building is 400 feet long and 300 feet broad and is filled with one of the most interesting cotton, agricultural and manufacturing exhibits ever displayed. The interior decorations, pictures and statuary are nearly all constructed of the natural products of the state, and some of the pictures made of leaves and grain are works of art.

Texas has now become one of the greatest cotton growing states in the

THE WACO COTTON PALACE.

Union. Upward of 5,000,000 acres of cotton land are under cultivation, and the 1,900,000 bales raised in 1893 sold for $66,500,000, while the 900,000 tons of cotton seed, the product that enters so largely into the construction of the "pure olive oil" we use, brought $15,500,000. The cotton crop of 1893 was thus worth $82,000,000 to Texas. It was alone exceeded in value by the cattle interest, which was valued at $84,000,000.

Waco is not only a great cotton growing center, but it is also a railroad center of much importance. Three trunk lines, the Houston and Texas Central, the St. Louis, Arkansas and Texas, and the Missouri, Kansas and Texas, enter the city, and there are other important railroads. Waco's growth in population has been very rapid. In 1880 the city had but 7,305 people, and in 1890 the population had doubled. When the cotton palace opened recently, there were 30,000 people in the building or on the grounds. The palace is owned by a company of Waco business men, and the intention is to hold a cotton exposition within its walls every year.

NOTABLE NEW CONGRESSMEN.

Three Members Elect Who Are Interesting For Various Reasons.

The recent political upheaval will bring many new and striking figures into public life, while many "old familiar faces" will disappear from their accustomed places in the national capital. Of the new men some have already distinguished themselves, while others are chiefly interesting as having taken an eminent position in public office as impregnable. To the latter class belongs Alton G. Drayton, who surprised the country by defeating Chairman William L. Wilson of the ways and means committee in the Second West Virginia district. Mr. Drayton is new to national politics, and his course in congress will be watched with interest.

William M. Springer, who has been conspicuous in Washington for 14 years, is another of the Democratic leaders who will be missed from the Fifty-fourth congress. He will be succeeded by Major James A. Connolly, a Springfield lawyer. Major Connolly was born in Newark, N. J., in 1842, and was educated at the academy in Chesterville,

ALTON G. DRAYTON. JAMES A. CONNOLLY. O. He was admitted to the bar in 1860 and in December of that year hung out his shingle in Charleston, W. Va. In June, 1862, he raised a company of volunteers and was elected captain. He served through the war, retiring with the title of major. Since the war Major Connolly has practiced his profession in Springfield. He held the office of United States district attorney under Presidents Grant, Hayes and Arthur.

Mr. M. W. Howard has been elected to congress from the Seventh Alabama district on the strength of his reputation as the author of a violently sensational book entitled "If Christ Came to Congress." This work has created a deal of talk in Washington, as it purports to reveal in the plainest language certain fashionable vices to which members of congress and other public officials are addicted. The motive and literary style of the book have been severely criticised by persons who admit that many of its revelations are substantially true. But its author will probably figure as one of the celebrities of the Fifty-fourth congress.

Mr. Howard is only 31 years old, is over 6 feet tall and powerfully built. He is a lawyer and lives at Fort Payne, Ala. He was a member of the Democratic national convention of 1892, but is now a Populist.

WE DON'T WANT IT SO.

Man on the Police Board to Suit Factions.

TOPEKA PEOPLE PAY THE EXPENSES

And They Want Honest Moral Business Men on the Police Board.

There is likely to be a red hot fight in Topeka over the appointment of new police commissioners when the new administration takes the helm of government. Already there is considerable talk about the new board, the talk being principally confined to speculation as to the outcome of the fight over the appointment of the Democratic member.

The metropolitan police law provides that there shall be three commissioners appointed by the governor and not more than two of the members shall belong to the same political party.

Governor Humphrey appointed two Republicans and a Democrat with Republican tendencies. Governor Lewelling appointed two Populists and a Democrat with Populist tendencies, and it is now conceded in political circles that it will be the duty of Governor Morrill to appoint two Republicans and some Democrat who will be satisfactory to the leading local Republicans.

It is said that efforts are being put forth by the gentlemen who managed the horse races at the fair grounds last September who want police commissioners appointed favorable to their association, and who will not place any obstacles in the way of future races and the "necessary" attachments to all such events.

If the horsemen have their way about it, the Democratic member of the new board of police commissioners will be Albert Parker, who is a Democrat, a business man and a horseman.

Another local element which wants to be protected in the appointment of the new police board is the German-American league, although it is known that this organization gave most of its votes to Governor Lewelling at the recent election.

The man who has the endorsement of the German-American League is Oscar Bischoff, the well known German business man and property owner who lives in North Topeka. Mr. Bischoff is an out and out candidate for the appointment and he is said to have the endorsement of David Overmyer, the late Democratic candidate for governor.

The local Democracy which stood by Overmyer in the late campaign contend that no Democrat should be appointed to office who is not satisfactory to their chief, but the Republicans, who have ideas of their own on this matter, say if David Overmyer is allowed to name the Democrat member of the state board of railroad commissioners he will not be allowed to have any further claims on the new administration.

Another faction of local Democrats, who are neither in the interest of the Germans nor the horsemen, are urging the availability of Ex-Councilman Albert Earnest as a candidate for the appointment as the Democratic member of the new police board.

Now is the opportunity for a Civic Federation to speak a few words on this highly important subject, if it intends to speak at all. Topeka wants a police board run in the interests of the moral and business interests of the city, and we don't want any political debts paid this way at our expense. Any man who attempts to get on the police board contrary to the wishes of a majority of the people of this city, ought to be unceremoniously put off. Our police department is for the use of the people of Topeka. We pay for it and we will have it just as we want it without regard to what "services" have been done by party hacks. The Civic Federation should get a handle on it.
